Educational Custody Evaluation (ECE)*

Cornerstone Educational Solutions provides Educational Custody Evaluations to aid the family court system in making educational decisions for minors involved in parental disputes or when educational questions arise needing expert opinions and recommendations.

*All evaluations are performed by Licensed Educational Psychologists

When is an Educational Custody Evaluation (ECE) necessary?

- When an educationally neutral expert opinion is necessary in making decisions regarding a minor's education.
- When there is an educational disagreement between parents (or guardians) with regards to a minor (school the minor will attend, unsatisfactory educational arrangement, etc.)
- When parenting limitations are affecting the minor's academic progress
- When guidance is needed to determine if a student can qualify for an Individualized Education Plan (IEP) through the public schools.

What are the components an ECE?

- A thorough review of the minor's school records
- Interview with parents (guardian), minor and pertinent school personnel
- Social Emotional assessment to determine the minor's level of adaptability and emotional competence or if the presence of an outside distraction (drugs, alcohol, peer pressure etc.) is affecting the minor's educational progress.
- Academic, Ability (IQ) and Processing Assessment to determine the presence of any deficits that may be causing educational difficulty for the minor (as needed)

What is provided to the parents and the courts?

- A thorough report reviewing assessment results and providing expert recommendations to the courts, attorneys and guardians.
- A meeting with the Psychologist to review the report and recommendations (as needed)
- Advocacy for the minor if the eligibility criteria for an Individualized Education Plan (IEP) is met.
- Expert Witness Testimony (as needed)

"Cornerstone created an evaluation tailored to the needs of the family law system. It not only addresses the salient issues but serves to assist in the advocacy process."
